

About AMS-PAR

A higher level of assurance

At AMS-PAR, our goal is to recover lost profits for your company. Through comprehensive examination of your company's contracts and review processes, we help you assess whether your venture partners, suppliers and contractors are in compliance with the terms of your agreements. We identify, document, and recover lost profits that will enhance your bottom line.

Why do you need an AMS-PAR review?

- Most of today's procurement departments are sized to buy and coordinate; they are not staffed or have the expertise to perform a retrospective contract performance assessment.
- Most major contractual agreements are highly complex, so our review helps ensure that the terms are accounted for properly.
- Claims must be documented—a process requiring access to third party records, vouchers and supporting data. Most internal resources do not have access to this information.
- Vendor/supplier agreements often are either not consulted by those approving invoices or are not available to them.
- Compliance with tax laws, job levels, and assignments must be assessed and validated on a case-by-case basis.

Our software and data analysis are designed to help disclose more discrepancies by looking at the information differently. Advanced technology enables us to interrogate data in new ways, and our expertise allows us to interpret the results to maximize profit recovery. Our secure website and frequent data backups assure reliability and confidentiality. And our in-depth reporting gives you a complete project summary with observations and recommendations based on careful analysis.

Serving our clients' interests

We provide our services to a wide variety of businesses, including oil and gas producers, royalty owners, refining and petrochemical facilities, power producers, manufacturers, and state/federal agencies. Whether you represent a two-person partnership or a federal government agency, we tailor our reviews to meet your company's objectives, and we staff engagements with the right resources dedicated to meeting those goals. Our record confirms that our thorough methodology brings results—our services have saved our clients hundreds of millions and stopped contract leakage. The highest accolade any service provider can achieve is having its clientele return repeatedly. More than 85% of our business is generated from repeat clients.

With an impressively credentialed staff and more than 40 years of diverse corporate work, AMS-PAR offers your company an uncommon level of contract insight and provides a higher level of assurance that your recoveries will be maximized.
